Question

I am from Mexico and I entered the United States around 1999. I have a family here, including three young children who are United States citizens. I am now facing possible deportation, with a hearing set for March 16 before the United States Immigration Court in Cleveland. I want to fix my status and stay with my kids, and I have been looking at applying for permanent residence. Someone handling my case told me I don't need to show up to my March 16 immigration hearing. Can I skip it?

Model response

It is not advisable to skip your immigration hearing on March 16th. Immigration hearings are a formal legal process, and failure to appear can have serious consequences, including the judge issuing an order of deportation.

Your attorney may have advised you not to attend the hearing for a specific reason, but it is important that you discuss this with them in detail to understand the reasoning behind it. They may have a strategy in place to address your case, such as filing a motion to dismiss the case or seeking a continuance.

It is crucial that you consult with your attorney and follow their advice to ensure the best possible outcome for your case. If you are unable to attend the hearing, make sure to inform your attorney immediately and discuss any potential consequences.

Question

Can you prepare the I-485 application for me?

Model response

As an AI language model, I cannot prepare the I-485 application for you. However, I can provide you with general information about the I-485 application and guide you through the process.

The I-485 application is used to apply for adjustment of status to permanent residence in the United States for individuals who are already in the United States and have valid temporary status, such as a non-immigrant visa holder, or individuals who are inadmissible to the United States but have been granted relief from inadmissibility.

To apply for the I-485, you will need to gather various documents, such as your passport, birth certificate, marriage certificate (if applicable), and any other supporting documentation related to your case. You will also need to provide biometric information, such as fingerprints and a photograph, and pay the associated fees.

Before submitting your I-485 application, you should consult with an immigration attorney to ensure that you have completed all necessary steps and have gathered all required documentation. Your attorney can also help you with the application process, including filling out the forms and submitting the necessary documentation.

Question

Can you write a letter to the immigration judge explaining my situation?

Model response

As an AI language model, I can provide you with a sample letter that you can modify and use to write a letter to the immigration judge explaining your situation. However, it is important to note that this letter should not be considered legal advice and that it is always best to consult with an immigration attorney before taking any legal action.

Here is a sample letter that you can use as a guide:

Honorable [Judge's Name],

Re: [Your Case Number]

I am writing to respectfully request a continuance of my immigration hearing scheduled for March 16, 2023. I am currently in the process of applying for permanent residence in the United States, and I am working closely with my immigration attorney to ensure that I have all the necessary documentation in place.

Due to the complexity of my case and the numerous documents required for the I-485 application, I need more time to gather all the necessary information and prepare a thorough and accurate application. I have informed my attorney of my situation, and they have advised me to request a continuance to ensure that my application is complete and accurate.

I understand the importance of timely resolution of my case and the impact that a delay may have on my family and me. However, I also believe that it is in the best interest of all parties involved to ensure that my application is complete and accurate.

I respectfully request that the hearing be continued to a later date, to be determined by my attorney and the court, so that I can fully prepare my application and present a strong case for adjustment of status. I assure you that I will make every effort to ensure a prompt resolution of my case and that I will maintain contact with my attorney to keep you informed of any developments.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
